ODDS and ENDS

As I went out with the dog at o'dark thirty this morning, it was drizzling on my noggin. I thought, we haven't done a no notice impromptu ride in a while and the day I pick is a day it is threatening rain after weeks of watching my grass turn yellow because of a lack of moisture...

Well, the spitting from the clouds let up and by the time we all met at Caliente, it was nice, cool, and dry.

We had 20 bikes and associated riders show. Some actual and some virtual. I could sense their presence. The actual number was 4 bikes and 5 riders. The rest were at home dreaming of riding with us in a virtual state... :).

No matter, our group took off at KSU and had an easy, stress free ride to Sammi's in Castroville where we had an excellent, relaxing breakfast. Got on the road again and drove through the Eastern edge of the Hill Country in a clockwise manner. The first few minutes getting back on the road in Castroville had us feeling some drops of wetness but within a couple of miles of getting back on the road, it all blew away and we rode in the cool damp air of the morning all the way back to Caliente. We rode roughly 60 or so miles in total and were back by 10:15 or so.

Overall, a great way to start the day and we didn't come back in a ball of sweat. Hope to see the "virtual" sleepy heads at our next ride. Regards, F2
