Odds and Ends

First of all, thanks to all the folks who rolled out of bed and braved a temperature of a balmy 30 degrees. Everyone got there early, the safety brief was done, and we got out right at KSU. Kinda like how we planned it and how it is supposed to work. Traffic was light throughout the trip. The sun never really broke through the clouds, and it stayed overcast the entire day with the temps not moving, kind of like the Cowboys... The sunscreen stayed in the Tourpak. The food at the restaurant was great. Other than a couple of cars changing lanes suddenly without a turn signal, the pucker factor stayed low which was good as it was so cold enough that one didn't want to take a chance of your pucker doing a flapper as windchill causing frostbite seemed like a valid concern. The trip was so smooth, it was almost like we just rode to someplace next door. Good company, good ride and we all look forward to the next ride to get even more miles on the odometer. See you on the road. F2
